Pittsburgh, Pa.

Corrected up to January 1, 1914.

The data in this Record was collected from Scott's Commentary, and an old Family Bible belonging to J. S. Slagle, The Wolf Memorial, From various cemeteries and, from personal letters from the living members of the families represented in it, and is as correct as the author could make it from the data obtainable. The birth dates of some are omitted at the request of the persons themselves or from the inability of the author to find them.

BRIEF BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES.

JAMES REED—Son of David and Margaret May Reed, was born on a farm near Washington, Pa., April 10th, 1793. He early developed a wonderful taste for mechanics and when a boy in the field made computations for clock wheels with chalk on the soles of his shoes. His father thinking this a waste of time that should be devoted to farm work would say, "O Jimmie, Jimmie, you will never amount to anything." Notwithstanding this dire prediction, "Jimmie" became an excellent mechanic in several different branches of work. He became a cabinet maker, silversmith, watch and watch case maker, and an engraver. His green house was the finest in Western Pennsylvania. When he went into business, he rapidly established a reputation as an expert jeweler, clock and watch maker, and maker of engineering and mathematical instruments.

April 10th, 1849, he removed with his family from Washington and went into business with his son, James R. Reed, in Pittsburgh, in the jewelry, clock and mathematical instrument business. He was one of the first, as well as most expert engineering instrument makers in the city and at the time of his death, was one of its oldest business men. He was one of the early abolitionists and was associated with Birney and Dr. Julius LeMoyne in their efforts to free the negroes. He was a member of the United Presbyterian Church, a man of spotless integrity, a dignified gentleman, a thorough and consistent Christian. May 6th, 1817, he married JANE ANN ALISON, of Chambersburg, Pa.

James Reed died at the residence of his son, James R. Reed, on Fayette Street, Allegheny City, Pa., June 5th, 1878, and was buried in the Cemetery at Washington, Pa.

MATTHEW HENDERSON CLARK—Son-in-law of James and Jane Ann Alison Reed, was born April 9th, 1812, in Brush Run district, Washington County, Pa. His father dying when he was a young child, his mother, a woman of rare judgment and energy, trained him in habits of industry and frugality. He attended Jefferson College at Canonsburg, Pa., but did not complete the last term of the Senior year to graduate. He read medicine in the office and under the care of Dr. Stevens, of Washington, Pa., and also studied at the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. Having completed his course and been admitted to practice, he located in Westmoreland County, Pa., but remained there only a short time. He removed to, and settled permanently in Washington, where he entered into the performance of the duties which kept him constantly and busily employed the remainder of his life. Notwithstanding the demands of his extensive practice, he found time to devote to many other of the interests of the town which he so faithfully served. For twenty years or more he was President of the Cemetery Association of which he was one of the original incorporators and a member of the Board of Managers from its organization in 1853; Director and member of the Business Committee of the First National Bank; Trustee of the Female Seminary. To each and all of these works he gave the same conscientious attention that was shown in his private business. He was actively interested in all the public improvements of the town and liberally assisted any enterprise that he considered worthy. From early life he was a member of the United Presbyterian Church, and for many years a Ruling Elder in the Washington Congregation. He showed his faith in, and love for, his Church by unswerving fidelity to its principles, and by his unexcelled liberality in its support. A conscientious Christian, Dr. Clark was a physician who gave his devoted and unwearied attention to his practice and patients and many of them owe their lives and health to the unremitting care he gave their cases. In his family life, as in everything else, Dr. Clark was loving, kind and tender. At the time of his death, he was the oldest practicing physician in Washington. The last days of May, Dr. Clark was in Pittsburgh attending a medical convention, when he was taken ill with cramp colic, and had to be taken home to Washington, but the attention given him proved unavailing for he died Monday, June 3rd, 1878, at 9:30 in the morning and was buried in the cemetery he had helped to make so beautiful.

Dr. M. H. Clark was married to ANN JANE REED, daughter of James and Jane Ann Alison Reed, of Washington. She died in 1848, and in 1850 he was married to REBECCA MARSHALL, who survived him.

JAMES REED CLARK—Son of Dr. Matthew H. and Anne Jane Reed Clark, was born in Washington, Pa., October 28th, 1843. He was educated in Washington and graduated from Washington College (now W. & J.) in 1861. Shortly after leaving college, he enlisted in the Union army, serving on the staff of General Meade in the War of the Rebellion. At the close of the war he returned to Washington and later removed to Pittsburgh, where he opened a drug store. In 1883 he removed to Mandan, North Dakota, where he established a drug and prescription business in which he continued until his death. He had always enjoyed excellent health until a very short time before his death, when he was taken ill but did not think it serious. He went to Cleveland, Ohio, for special medical treatment, but it did not have the desired effect and Mr. Clark succumbed to the disease.

James R. Clark was president of the Citizen's Club in Man-

dan. A man of undoubted integrity and a public spirited citizen, actively interested in everything that tended to the welfare of the place in which he lived. He was an Elder in the Presbyterian Church and a faithful and consistent Christian. Modest and unobtrusive in his manner, his love for truth; uprightness of character; honest business dealings; generous and sympathetic demeanor made him respected and honored by all who came in contact with him. On October 28th, 1868, he was married to LAURA BARLOW REED in Washington, Pa. He died on Thursday, October 26th, 1907, in Cleveland, Ohio, and was buried in Washington, Pa.

JOSEPH ALISON REED—Son of James and Jane Ann Alison Reed, was born in Washington, Pa., December 31st, 1823. He studied in Washington and afterwards in Philadelphia. After a long course of study of medicine he located in Allegheny City, Pa., and commenced the practice of his profession about 1844. After practicing for some time and proving especially skillful in his treatment of mental disease he was chosen for the head of the West Penn Hospital in Pittsburgh. After seven years at the West Penn he was made head of the new Western Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane which had just been built at Dixmont, nine miles below Pittsburgh on the P. Ft. W. & C. R. R. He continued there as Superintendent and Physician in Charge for the rest of his life. Possessed of a wonderfully kind, considerate and thoughtful disposition, Dr. Reed was especially fitted for his work among those poor afflicted ones and while he was firm and decided where it was necessary to be so, he was also gentle, indulgent and careful in his treatment of his charges. After a faithful discharge of his duties for fourteen years, Dr. Reed's health failed and for twelve months or more he was confined to his room, when death came and released him from his sufferings. In 1848 Joseph A. Reed was married to ELIZA JOHNSTON HAY, of Hartford, N. Y., a graduate of Miss Willard's school at Troy, N. Y., whom he met while she was teaching at the Female Seminary in Washington. She died in Pittsburgh, August 11th, 1858. November 15th, 1860, Dr. Reed was married in New York to MARY FRANCIS FAHNESTOCK. Dr. Reed died at Dixmont November 6th, 1884, and is interred in Allegheny Cemetery.

DAVID REED—Son of James and Jane Ann Alison Reed was born in Washington, November 12th, 1821. He received a liberal and thorough education in the schools and college of his native town; studied law and in 1846 was admitted to practice. He located in Pittsburgh where, through his clear mind, energetic habits, and upright character, he soon became one of the most trusted and leading attorneys at the bar, where he practiced for over thirty years. In 1874 he was appointed United States District Attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania, and discharged the duties of that office in a faithful, honest and efficient manner. He was a councilman from the seventh ward, Pittsburgh. He was a man of probity and reliability, a successful lawyer and he left behind him a reputation without a blemish. He was refined in his tastes, with a keen sense of humor, amiable, kind hearted and companionable. A devoted husband and father and over and above all, a sincere and consistent Christian gentleman. In October 1851, David Reed was married to SARAH ANN McKINNEY. David Reed died at his home, corner of Wylie and Congress Streets, in Pittsburgh, Saturday evening, February 17th, 1877, and is buried in Allegheny Cemetery.

JAMES RAMSEY REED—Son of James and Jane Ann Allison Reed, was born in Washington, Pa., March 23rd, 1826. Attended school and lived there until 1846 when he went to Pittsburgh, where he worked for a short time as a journeyman for John Craig and W. W. Wilson. In 1847 he went into business for himself as a jeweler. In 1849 his father joined him and they formed a partnership under the firm name of James R. Reed & Co., Jewelers, for the manufacture and sale of jewelry, watches, clocks and mathematical instruments. The first store was at 36 Smithfield Street. They later moved to Third Street, and then to Fifth Street (now 5th avenue) and finally to Market Street. Mr. Reed was for years a school director and also one of the Board of Inspectors of the Western Penitentiary, in both of which positions, he discharged the duties with a devotedness and interest that made him a valued member of these Boards. As a member of the Third United Presbyterian Church, he was regular and faithful in the discharge of his Church duty. Possessing a remarkably fine mind, a wonderfully retentive memory, a keen sense of observation and the ability to describe and recount his experience, Mr. Reed was a delightful man to meet. His strict integrity, faithful honesty and friendship, won for him the esteem and respect of his associates and the love of his friends. He sold his interest in the store and business to his nephew, J. Allison Reed, and retired from active partnership in the firm of J. R. Reed & Co., but never relinquished his interest in the welfare of the company. April 16th, 1851, he was married to REBECCA J. McKEAN, of Mercer, Pa. In December, 1907, while seemingly in perfect health, Mr. Reed contracted pneumonia and died in a few days, on the 15th of December, 1907, at his residence on Fayette Street, Allegheny (now N. S. Pittsburgh). His remains are buried in the family lot in Allegheny Cemetery.

JAMES REED—Son of James R. and Rebecca J. Reed, was born in Pittsburgh, May 6th, 1852. Was educated in the schools in Pittsburgh and in the Western University. He then went to Rensselaer Polytechnic School in Troy, N. Y., where he graduated and took up the profession of Civil Engineer with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. He rapidly worked up until he held the position of Division Superintendent with that company. He resigned that position and later became Chief Engineer to the Pressed Steel Car Co. On October 17th, 1877, he married Alice Hutchinson, of Troy. In January, 1906, he caught a severe cold which rapidly developed into pneumonia and on January 10th, 1906, at his apartments in Bellevue, he died. He was buried from the residence of his father on Fayette Street, Allegheny, Pa.

GEORGE MURRAY REED—Son of James and Jane Ann Alison Reed, was born in Washington, Pa., February 12th, 1828. He attended school there and also learned the preliminary parts of the jewelry business. In 1849 he went with his father to Pittsburgh, where for about two years he worked as a journeyman with his father and brother James, after which, or about 1851, he was taken into the business as a member of the firm of James R. Reed & Co., Jewelers. He continued to be an active partner in the business for the rest of his life, and, up until about eight months before his death, he went faithfully and regularly to his business. His eyesight failing him in 1883, he went first to New York to consult specialists in the hope of improving it, and again in 1886, but their efforts were in vain and he became totally blind in 1889. Notwithstanding this affliction, Mr. Reed's beautiful Christian character enabled him to retain his bright, cheery personality. He mastered the art of reading the books prepared for the blind and on one occasion he remarked to a relative, "When I cannot sleep I just reach out and get my book and read awhile and I don't have to make a light to do so either." In very early life he united with the Associated Presbyterian Church, which later became a part of the United Presbyterian Church, and all through his life he certainly adorned his profession by a "Consistent walk with God." For 35 years he was Treasurer of the Board of Home Missions. As treasurer he continued to sign the checks, even after his sight failed, for this purpose he had a form made in metal with openings to guide him where the spaces to be filled in were. He also devised a tablet with grooves and a wire for guiding his hand in writing and by this means he could write letters. He was kept in touch with all that was going on in the business and social world, for his children and grandchildren read to him what he could not read himself and his friends loved to go into his office to chat with and tell him things they thought would interest him. For forty-one years he was an Elder in the Third U. P. Church and most of that time active in Church and Sabbath school work until his blindness interfered with some of it. He was married on May 4th, 1854, to SARAH ANN TEMPLETON, of Canonsburg, Pa. Mrs. Reed died on September 17th, 1873. In December, 1877, Mr. Reed was married to Mrs. Emily H. Scott. She died in 1888. On August 28th, 1908, after a long and trying illness, which he bore so patiently, God called George M. Reed home to the brightness and glory of his eternal home where he now can see.

ALEXANDER R. REED—Youngest son of James and Jane Ann Reed, was born in Washington July 9th, 1834, and lived there until 1849, when his father moved his family to Pittsburgh. Alex worked for his brothers and father as a jewelry, clock and instrument maker. Later he gave up this work and became a commercial traveler, following this business until 1859 when he went into the oil business, in which he has continued ever since. In 1861 he recruited a company of soldiers, drilling them in old City Hall, Market street, Pittsburgh, at the same time using City Hall over the market, as a living quarters until Camp Wilkins was formed and the company moved there as a part of the 77th Regiment under Col. F. S. Stumbaugh. Mr. Reed was made Captain of Company E. and the Regiment was attached to General James F. Negley's Brigade. The Brigade was sent to Gen. Buell's Division of the Union army in Kentucky. Shortly after the arrival of the regiment in Kentucky, it was transferred to Gen. Wood's Brigade and continued as a part of that organization for the remainder of its enlistment. At the expiration of his army service, Mr. Reed returned to his business in the oil fields. He was married three times, first in September, 1855 to MARY HEPZIBAH McMILLAN, of Allegheny. She died September 28th, 1867. Mr. Reed then married ELIZABETH STOUTENBOROUGH, of Brooklyn, N. Y. After a short married life Mrs. Elizabeth Reed died, and on June 29th, 1888, Mr. Reed was married in Wheeling, West Virginia, to Mrs. Anna S. Hoblitzell Cowan. Mr. Reed and his family reside on Breckenridge Avenue, Pittsburgh.

DAVID ALFRED HENGST—Youngest son of Benjamin and Susan Hengst, and son-in-law of Dr. Joseph A. Reed, was born at Wrightsville, Pennsylvania, Thursday, May 17th, 1849. He attended the district schools, York Academy, and the State Normal School. While attending these various institutions he employed his vacation periods in teaching. Graduating from the Academy of York and the Normal School he took up the study of medicine as his life work, matriculating at Jefferson Medical College. He graduated from this College and received his degree of M. D. in 1870, and then began the practice of his profession in the town of East Prospect, Pa. On Monday, September 18th, 1871, Dr. Hengst was married to HANNAH E. GRAHAM. Their son, ROBERT GRAHAM HENGST, was born on Friday, January 24th, 1873. On Monday, January 27th, 1873, Mrs. D. A. Hengst died. In the Autumn of 1873 Dr. Joseph A. Reed appointed Dr. Hengst Assistant House Physician to the Western Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane at Dixmont, Pa. He continued in this position until the Spring of 1877, when he removed to Pittsburgh and resumed the practice of medicine. He was President of the Staff of Physicians at Mercy Hospital for almost twenty years. He was one of the original staff of the Childrens Hospital of Pittsburgh, was also on the staff at the Eye and Ear Hospital, and was connected with St. Francis Hospital. Dr. Hengst was a frequent contributor to the medical magazines, being an authority in his special line of practice. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church of York, Pa. After coming to Pittsburgh he became a member of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church and served for many years on its Board of Deacons. Later he became connected with the East Liberty Presbyterian Church. On Wednesday, May 14th, 1879, he was married to CLARA E. REED, daughter of Dr. Joseph A. Reed, of Dixmont Hospital. Dr. David A. Hengst was a man of extreme gentleness of soul and manner, which, combined with great firmness and force of character, commanded for him the respect of all who knew him. Ardent love for his profession, and the utmost fidelity to the performance of its most arduous duties, even to the sacrifice of his own life, were dominant traits of his character. In 1898 a fatal malady, contracted in the faithful discharge of duty, came upon him, and on Monday, April 24th, 1899, in the city of Denver, Colorado, Dr. Hengst passed to his sure reward, and of him it may well be said, "He was faithful unto death."

REMINISCENCES

Related by Alexander R. Reed, Sr., June, 1913, of the Alison and Reed Families.

JOSEPH ALISON, our Grandfather, was born in 1752 and died June 11th, 1813. ANN COOPER, of Cooperstown, Pa., was born in 1757 and died June 14th, 1829. Joseph Alison and Ann Cooper were married. Ann Cooper's father owned the land that Cooperstown is built upon. Adjoining the town he had a farm, which at his death belonged to Ann Cooper—or Grandmother Alison. Uncle George Eyster was executor for Mrs. Joseph Alison, having married a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Alison. Mrs. Alison's father, in his lifetime, permitted a minister of their congregation (which I think was Lutheran—pretty sure it was) to keep the farm as a residence. When the property came into the hands of Uncle George Eyster, Sr., he paid a visit to Cooperstown and this farm—Uncle George told me this himself—He, unfortunately for the minister, arrived on Saturday evening; the old gentleman, supposing that Uncle George had come to dispossess him, was worried so that he walked the floor Saturday night. Uncle George heard him walking back and forth and supposed he was getting his sermon ready for the next day. Next morning he stepped out of his bedroom and said to the old minister that he had noticed his being up walking the floor in the night. The minister said, "Yes, I think I know what you are here for." Uncle George asked him "What?" And he replied, "To take possession of this property, this farm." Uncle George said to him, "Yon make yourself easy on that score, for you will never be disturbed as long as you live." The old gentleman was greatly relieved and with a good heart could preach the sermon he had prepared. I believe that is about the way Uncle George put it. This is why the property was never sold by Grandmother Alison or Uncle George Eyster; it was to permit the minister to stay there as long as he lived. This had been determined before Mrs. Alison's death and that is the reason for the property never having been disposed of by Uncle George and it really still belongs to the heirs.

Mother, during her lifetime, told me a number of times about this property and said I was the only one of the connection who would ever fight for it. I, in turn told her that I was the last one of the heirs who would dispossess anyone who had occupied the property so long in peaceable possession. So it remains to this day. Uncle George's papers were all burned in the fire which destroyed Chambersburg, so the only record we would have to fight on would be in the Court house at Cooperstown. This Ann Cooper belonged to the Baltimore family of Coopers, and if anyone would want to continue hunting up these matters it should be through the Coopers of Baltimore, who are a very wealthy family. They came to Washington and wanted to take brother George when a little fellow and raise him as their own son, giving him an inheritance. Father said he was able to raise and educate his own children. Sure he was.

Grandfather Alison was a hatter and made the first napped silk hat that was made in this country, or any other country that was known of. He made the two first silk riding hats for his employer's wife and sister. It created quite a fad for those hats and, in consequence, his employer reaped quite a lot of money from the sale of them. Joseph Alison's mother was a Fulton, and Miss Fulton was the aunt of Robert Fulton, the man of tea-kettle fame, the man who invented the steamboat and gained quite a notoriety by it; by-the-by while Robert Fulton was in Europe experimenting on the steamboat business, he wrote Grandfather Alison to ask him for the loan of twenty-five pounds (or $125). This Grandfather sent him with the admonition that he would better drop the steamboat business or idea and come home and make money in this country without fooling away his time in Europe. He was then in Paris. He did not take the advice, which was a good thing for Fulton. Grandfather helped Robert Fulton quite considerably on his arrival in this country. Mr. Eyster had the papers for these facts but they were all burned. Fulton was a Pennsylvanian. So far as their being soldiers is concerned, the records are in Harrisburg. They were all soldiers in those days—they had to be. Could not help themselves unless they were Tories.

Ann Cooper was a young Miss visiting Carlisle, where the soldiers' fort or barracks was. She was very fleet of foot, so much so that she outran the others. She could run like Jehu, could outrun anybody. She was out getting berries and there were scouts belonging to the barracks out to protect the fort from the Indians. This is where the fleetness of foot comes in. Ann was suddenly startled by an Indian war whoop, saw the Indian and started back towards the fort. The Indian was determined to get her scalp or capture her anyhow, so he ran after her. There was a slight grade down hill and at the foot of the grade there was a sapling in full leaf that had been chopped down and laid across her path. She saw that by turning to the right or left to avoid the sapling, the Indian would no doubt capture her, so she took a flying leap and cleared the top of the sapling branches. The Indian getting to that place, gave a snort and "nugh" and was unable to jump it. He knew he would light among it. She thus escaped capture, but the Indian was not so fortunate, for his scalp was taken into the fort that evening. There was another incident in the life of Ann Cooper that I might mention. Ann Cooper and the mother of Dr. Jaynes of Expectorant fame, became fast friends as girls, and they were out together one day gathering berries. On this occasion they took their dog along for fear of the Indians. While they were in the timber the dog killed a panther cub. Before the dog could get away from the cub, the mother panther appeared and the dog was soon in the condition of the cub. The panther then seeing the two women, was about to spring, Dr. Jaynes' mother fainted and fell on the road or path. Ann stooped or crouched down and took her head on her knee to revive her. In those days the girls wore sun bonnets. The panther was about to spring, when there was a voice back of her and evidently on a little rise of ground. It said to her, "Hist, girl, stoop lower, thy bonnet hides the critter's head." He shot and killed the panther. This occurrence is kept on all Jaynes Expectorant bottles to this day. You will find that picture there. On the first visit I ever made to Philadelphia, I was told by my mother to call on Dr. Jaynes and tell him who I was, which I certainly did. I went to his residence which I think was on the corner of Broad and Walnut streets, a fine large mansion. I saw an old gentleman standing on the stone pillared entrance—such as you see in colleges. I told him who I was and why I had come to see him, that mother wanted me to pay my respects to him. He then commenced to talk to me about his mother and my Grandmother Ann Cooper. He took me into the hallway and told me he would show me something that would interest me very much. (Mr. Alex. Reed here explained that the picture which Dr. Jaynes showed him, which was about 8 feet long, represented the scene that has been described in this paper). He said, after talking about the painting awhile, that he only regretted that he could not have had three portraits—one of the hunter, one of his mother and one of Ann Cooper, but this could not be. I have no doubt that painting is in existence still.

Hugh Alisen was a half brother of Mrs. Jane Alison Reed—Mrs. Martha Alison Slagle and Mrs. Eleanor Alison Eyster. He was an Indian trapper and was out here at a very early day among the Indians with whom he lived. He came to Washington in his hunting traps, with his rifle. I mean by his hunting traps—his clothes and furs. He had walked all the way from the Indian Reservation at Fort Wayne and was going East to his old home in Chambersburg, Pa. He arrived all right and safely in Washington. Aunt Slagle and mother, I remember, were both crying because Uncle Hugh looked so tough, so rugged, but he was not any worse looking than many men that we consider good people in these days. Uncle Hugh, seeing me an inquisitive kind of a chap, took me between his knees to tell me about the little Indian boys where he came from. I just remember that as well as if it were yesterday. He was sitting in the dining room with his back to the hall door which was one step down into the dining room, when the door opened and father stood in the doorway. Father said to him, "Hugh, that boy will know enough about Indians without your telling him anything about it now. In other words he did not want Uncle Hugh to tell me anything about his kind of life. I guess father was right too, for I guess I knew about as much as Uncle Hugh did. Well now, the two sister's, mother and Aunt Slagle, fitted him out with citizen's clothes, befitting clothes, or something he could wear when he went east. The only things that Uncle Hugh left at father's was an old buckskin hunting jacket made for him by some old Indian squaw I suppose, and a coonskin cap. The hunting jacket used to be up in the back room of the back building of father's house and many a time the relator of this slipped up to that back room, put the hunting jacket on and trailed around like girls do now with their skirts. I took good care that father didn't see me at it. It was always in its place when father was about. Uncle Hugh went east from Washington; how long he stayed there I do not know, but he never came back to Washington. Uncle Hugh married, but I don't know where. He had two sons and a daughter that I know of, the daughter was called Jane Ann Reed Alison. The last I knew of her was as a widow in Seattle. The boys, she told me, that time I saw her, had become very prominent as railroad men. She came east on a visit to claim property or an interest in the old Fort Wayne Railroad, given her by her husband who was a lawyer and had something to do with securing an entrance to Chicago for that road. She never made anything out of it, however. Now the two boys are prominent men out in the neighborhood of Chicago, one of them at least became a railroad man and those people are still living, but we have lost track of them. One of them visited our place once.

The Reed's originally spelled their name REID. Grandfather Reed changed the spelling of it to Reed because of a Tory—Grandfather was a Federalist. There was a Tory in that neighborhood who spelled his name the same way grandfather did his. Persons sometimes made a mistake. Both of them were David. When spoken to on the subject, grandfather said, "No, sir, I spell my name R-E-E-D." The Tory some place in Western Pennsylvania, spelled his name Reid.

Grandfather David Reed was a captain of what we would call a company of Indian fighters, a man that protected the settlers along Chartiers creek and down the Ohio river. I cannot think of that chief's name, the man who would not turn on his heel to save his life. Grandfather and he were intimate. He was a chief of the Mingoes down near Steubenville, and there is a stream there called Mingo.

BRIEF BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES.

GEORGE SENSENY EYSTER—Son of Christian and Eliza Senseny Eyster, was born Wednesday, November 25th, 1795. When a young man in 1820, he went to Chambersburg, Pa., to live and was employed as a clerk in one of the leading general merchandising stores of that period. He went into the store with the understanding that he was later to be made a partner if he gave satisfaction. Although he fulfilled faithfully all the requirements, his employer failed to keep his agreement, so Mr. Eyster started a business of his own and being a good manager who could speak the German language, he at once became successful and the leading merchant of Chambersburg, retaining that relation throughout a long and successful career. On October 8th, 1822, he was married to ELEANOR SUSANNA ALISON, of Chambersburg. George S. Eyster died in Chambersburg March 25th, 1858, and is buried in Cedar Grove Cemetery in that place.

JOSEPH ALISON EYSTER—Eldest son of George and Eleanor S. A. Eyster, was born in Chambersburg, September 24th, 1823. He received his early education in Chambersburg and was for a time a student in Washington College at Washington, Pa., where he was a classmate and warm friend of James G. Blaine. After leaving college he made a tour of the west on horseback, with a view of locating there, but, at the earnest solicitation of his father, he returned to Chambersburg and became a partner with his father in the general merchandising business. At the outbreak of the Civil War, he became the senior member of the firm of Eyster Brothers, and the house became the chief supply for many articles to the military encampments in the vicinity of Chambersburg. He conducted a straw board mill north of town. In 1862 he went into partnership with William Heyser in the manufacture of white writing paper at the Hollywell Mills southwest of Chambersburg. In 1873 he sold out of that firm and built a straw board mill at Halltown, W. Va. Although having sustained heavy losses by fire and storm, Mr. Eyster's skillful management enabled him to overcome these discouragements and come out successfully. While on a business trip to Winchester, Virginia, during the war, he was made a prisoner and taken to Libby prison, where he met and became a warm friend of Commander Albert Kautz, U. S. A. His generous disposition made him a favorite in the prison where he was regarded as a benefactor by his fellow prisoners. This same quality, combined with his genial manner, cheerful disposition, unostentatious helpfulness, and flow of genuine wit, made him a favorite wherever he went. He was released from Libby prison through a court action. Although

THE EYSTER FAMILY

Mr. Eyster removed to Philadelphia to live, he never lost his attachment for his home town and when he retired from active business on account of failing health, he returned to Chambersburg to spend the remaining years of his life. When a boy he learned the printing business and helped to do the press work on an old Ramage press for the printing of Cobb's Speller, which was a reprint. On October 7th, 1848, J. A. Eyster was married to ELIZABETH C. HEYSER, of Chambersburg. After a long illness from dropsy and Brights disease, J. Alison Eyster passed peacefully to sleep at his residence on East Market Street, Chambersburg, at one o'clock on Monday, December 3rd, 1900, and is buried in Cedar Grove Cemetery.

GEORGE SENSENY EYSTER—Son of Joseph Alison and Lizzie C. H. Eyster, was born in Chambersburg, Pa., July 4th, 1849. He was educated in Chambersburg and when through school was employed by his father in the paper making business. Later he became a partner with his father in the straw board business and was manager of the mill that J. A. Eyster established and equipped in Halltown, West Virginia, and by his industry, honest methods and strict attention to business made a success of that work. He was a kind, genial and pleasant man. On July 20th, 1892, he married ANNIE J. AMBLER, of Charleston, West Virginia. George S. Eyster died at Halltown April 13th, 1907.

JOSEPH ALISON EYSTER, Jr.—Son of J. Alison and Lizzie C. H. Eyster, was born in Chambersburg, November, 1864. He received his early education in his home town and later entered the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. Graduated from that institution in 1887 and joined his father and brother George in the straw board business in Halltown, W. Va. He was married on February 11th, 1906, in Washington City to AMY McLEOD. He died in Halltown July 30th, 1912.

JAMES COOPER EYSTER—Second son of George Senseny and Eleanor S. A. Eyster, was born in Chambersburg, September 27th, 1825. He grew up and was educated there and for some time was associated with his brother, J. Alison Eyster, in the dry goods business in Chambersburg, Pa. In 1872 he was appointed to a very responsible position in the United States mint in Philadelphia and removed his residence to that city. He continued in that position until the time of his death, discharging the important duties it involved in a careful and conscientious manner. James C. Eyster was of a genial, generous hearted, companionable disposition, an intelligent and honorable gentleman, who was highly esteemed by the community in which he lived. January 22nd, 1852, he was married to EMMELINE

THE EYSTER FAMILY

YEAGER, of Mercer, Pa. On Friday, April 15th, 1892, at his residence, 2239 Hunting Park Avenue, Philadelphia, the call to lay down his work in this world came suddenly to Mr. Eyster, and he died of heart disease. His remains are interred in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Chambersburg, Pa.

GEORGE EYSTER—Third son of George Senseny and Eleanor S. A. Eyster, was born in Chambersburg February 23th, 1832. He was educated at Pennsylvania College, where he graduated in 1852. He studied law and was admitted to practice, serving for a short time as District Attorney of Franklin County, Pa. He was appointed Provost Marshal of the southern tier of counties of Pennsylvania during the Civil War, the duties of which he discharged in the most satisfactory manner. At the termination of the war he resumed his law practice until in 1869 when President Grant appointed him Assistant Treasurer of the United States at Philadelphia. This position he held until a short time before his death, discharging the responsible duties of the office faithfully and conscientiously. Failing health prompted him to seek a milder and more congenial climate and he was on the point of doing so when death suddenly claimed him. He died at the residence of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Scott in Philadelphia, about four o'clock in the afternoon of December 29th, 1886. In May, 1856, George Eyster was married in Franklin County, Pa., to MARY CRAIG, who survived him. He is buried in Mt. Vernon Cemetery, Philadelphia.

WILLIAM C. EYSTER—Youngest son of George S. and Eleanor S. A. Eyster, was born in Chambersburg, Pa., January 30th, 1835. He was educated in that place and when through school, became associated with his father in the mercantile business and continued in it for some years, when he gave up his interest in the store and moved to Duluth, Minnesota, where he went into the banking business under the firm name of Bell, Eyster & Co. He continued in this business for a number of years and was very successful and prosperous. He returned to Chambersburg, and on the 24th of September, 1887, he died there and is buried in Cedar Grove Cemetery. He was married in 1860 to MARGARET BROTHERTON, of Chambersburg, who is also buried in Chambersburg, Pa.

JOHN SCOTT—Son of John and Agnes Irvine Scott and son-in-law of George and Eleanor Alison Eyster, was born in Alexandria, Pa., July 14th, 1824. He received his education in that village, in public schools and from private tutors. Studied law in Chambersburg, Pa., in the office of Hon. Alexander Thompson; was admitted to the bar in 1846 and located in Huntingdon, Pa., where he practiced law, and in 1857, was made an associate counsel of the Pennsylvania Railroad. While he resided in Huntingdon, Pa., he was one of the original incorporators, and a director of the Broad Top Railroad; Director in the First National Bank; Trustee of the Academy; an Elder in the Presbyterian Church and Superintendent of its Sunday School. In 1869 he was elected to the United States Senate from Pennsylvania and resigned the position of counsel to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, in order to accept the Senatorship. At the expiration of his term in 1875 Mr. Scott was tendered the position of Secretary of the Interior in the Cabinet, by President U. S. Grant, but preferring to return to the chosen work of his life, he declined the appointment and re-entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad, removing to Pittsburgh in order to take charge of the legal business of the company lines west of Pittsburgh, organizing the legal department for those lines in June, 1875. In November, 1877, he was called to Philadelphia to take charge of the legal department of the P. R. R. as General Solicitor of that company and its allied lines. In Pittsburgh, Mr. Scott was made a member of the Board of Managers of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane at Dixmont, and a Director of the Western Theological Seminary. Soon after he went to Philadelphia to live he was made a member of the Board of Publication and Sabbath school work of the Presbyterian Church; a member of the Board of Ministerial Relief; Director and Trustee of Princeton Theological Seminary; a Trustee of the University of Pennsylvania; a Director of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. and of the Centennial National Bank. He was an Elder in the Walnut Street Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia. In 1895 he retired from the office of General Solicitor of the P. R. R. Co. In all of the numerous positions of trust that Mr. Scott was called to fill he discharged the duties they imposed upon him with an integrity of purpose, a faithfulness, honesty and attention to business that won for him the esteem, respect and confidence of all with whom he came in contact. In his private and family life Mr. Scott was the soul of cordial hospitality and kindness and was admired and loved by all. On May 8th, 1849, in Chambersburg Pa., John Scott was married to ANNIE ELIZA EYSTER, daughter of George S. and Eleanor Alison Eyster. He died in Philadelphia, Pa., Sunday, November 29th, 1896, and is buried in Woodlands Cemetery.

WILLIAM SCOTT—Son of John and Annie Eliza Eyster Scott, was born in Huntingdon, Pa., May 8th, 1850. In 1864 he entered Princeton College and graduated from that institution in 1868. February 23rd, 1876, he registered with his father as a student for the study of law and later studied in the office of Knox & Reed in Pittsburgh, and on October 30th, 1878, he was admitted to practice. With Messrs. John Hampton and John Dalzell, he formed the law firm of Hampton, Dalzell & Scott. In 1887 it became the firm of Dalzell, Scott and Gordon, and was ranked as one of the leading law firms of Pennsylvania. For many years they handled the immense business of the Pennsylvania Railroad and of the Pennsylvania Company until that business became so heavy that it was necessary to divide it with another law firm. The firm of Dalzell, Scott & Gordon were the legal advisors in many of the most prominent and important cases in Pennsylvania, and in all test cases submitted to William Scott, he gave the benefit of his great legal knowledge and experience, conducting them fairly and honestly and he was never known to take an unfair advantage of his opponents. In June 1900 he was elected president of the State Bar Association, and he was a member of the Law Reform Committee of that Association. Although his time was valuable and the work onerous, Mr. Scott, for many years represented Allegheny County on the State Board of Examiners to examine applicants for admission to the bar. The Governor appointed him one of the Pittsburgh representatives to the Universal Congress of Lawyers and Jurists which held sessions at the World's Fair, St. Louis, September, 1904. As a Trustee of Shadyside Academy, Mr. Scott was not only a large financial contributor, but he also took an active personal interest in the welfare of the school. He was a member and a trustee of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church. As a lawyer, Wm. Scott was possessed of rare ability and high attainments. His integrity and sense of honor were of the highest grade. His genial, lovable disposition, his consideration for his acquaintances, and devotion to his friends made him a man loved and respected by those who knew him, and he was, above all, a perfect type of Christian gentleman. In 1870, Mr. Scott was married to ANNIE KING, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James King, of Pittsburgh. After a long and painful illness, from which he could find no relief, William Scott died on Tuesday, February 27th, 1906, at 3:30 A. M. at his home on Bidwell Street, E. E., Pittsburgh, Pa.

JOSEPH ALISON SCOTT—Son of John and Annie Eyster Scott, was born in Huntingdon, Pa., May 20th, 1865. Graduated from the Arts Department of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia in 1885, and from the Medical Department of the same school in 1889. Before beginning to practice, Dr. Scott was a resident of Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore, Md., and of the Pennsylvania Hospital at Philadelphia. From 1903 until his death he held the position of Adjunct Professor of Medicine in the University of Pennsylvania. As a memorial to

Dr. Scott a number of his classmates and friends have founded a fellowship in the University, for medical research and helping some student to complete his medical course. Dr. J. Alison Scott possessed the attributes of a true physician, his sincere Christianity, his instinctive love of justice, his whimsical humor, his kind thoughtfulness and his general helpfulness made up a rare personality, which has left an impress on all who knew him. On November 4th, 1896, in Philadelphia, J. Alison Scott was married to MISS FRANCES PEPPER. He died at North East Harbor, Maine, August 13th, 1909.

WALTER SCOTT—Youngest son of John and Annie Eyster Scott, was born in Huntingdon, Pa., April 19th, 1868. After graduating from the University of Pennsylvania, in 1889, he studied and practised law, with his brother William in Pittsburgh. In 1897 he removed to Colorado Springs, Colorado, where he was an active member of the bar for ten years prior to his death. At Colorado Springs he was president of the Rocky Mountain Alumni Association of the University of Pennsylvania, a director of the Y. M. C. A., a member of the El Paso County Bar Association and of the Colorado State Bar Association. He practiced in both the County and Supreme Court of Colorado. He was active in every good movement for the betterment of the community as a whole, and in all matters of public policy, his judgment carried weight among the leading citizens of Colorado Springs. To the practice of his profession, as to his social and civic relation, he brought integrity, mental as well as moral; honor; a passion for righteousness, a clean life, clean thought, clean speech, an exquisite courtesy, a tranquil courage, a warm and loyal heart, were all among the precious possessions of Walter Scott. He died in Colorado Springs on October 24th, 1907, and is buried in the family lot in Woodlands Cemetery in Philadelphia, Pa. He was unmarried.

BRIEF BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES.

DAVID ECKERT, Sr., was born in Berks County, Pennsylvania, November 19th, 1778. He learned the saddlery business with his brother Peter in Womelsdorf, Berks County, Pa. While working as a journeyman with Mr. Wolff in Chambersburg, Pa., his attention was drawn to the number of saddles, bridles and harness that were being sent to Washington, Pa., and thought it might be a good place to do business in, so, in the summer of 1804 he went to Washington, was pleased with the place and decided to settle there. He returned to Chambersburg and on November 6th, 1804, was married to SUSANNAH SLAGLE, and then went to Washington and started into the saddlery and harness business and made that place his home for the rest of his life. They made the trip from Chambersburg to Washington, over the Alleghany Mountains, on horseback. By his industry and thrift and close attention to business Mr. Eckert succeeded well in his affairs and was quite prosperous. He was a good husband and father, an honest and successful business man, an honored and respected citizen. A member of the Presbyterian Church and an earnest, conscientious Christian gentleman. Mr. Eckert died in Washington, June 19th, 1850, and is buried in the Washington Cemetery.

JOHN SLAGLE ECKERT—Son of David and Susannah S. Eckert, was born in Washington, Pa., September 27th, 1820. He went West when a young man and lived in several places in the West, spending several years in Montana, also living in Indianapolis, Indiana, and Fairfield, Iowa. In 1853 he was married in Indianapolis, to ANN ANDERSON, who died in 1876. After the death of his wife he went to Fairfield, where he made his home with his niece, Mrs. Wm. H. Young, until a few weeks before his death, when he went to his brother James' home. He was of a cheery, kindly, though modest and retiring disposition, a great lover of home and always ready to help others who needed his help. He died at the residence of his brother, James Eckert, in Fairfield, August 29th, 1889, and is buried there.

JAMES SLAGLE ECKERT—Son of David and Susannah S. Eckert, was born in Washington, October 26th, 1823. He attended school in Washington and graduated from the Washington (now W. & J.) College in 1843. In March, 1844, in company with Robert McElhinny and Christian S. Shaffer, he left his home town and west West. Iowa at that time was considered very "Far West." They went on horseback to Pittsburgh, where they took a boat for St. Louis, Missouri. There they transferred their goods to, and took another boat for the Upper Mississippi. They reached Fort Madison in April and after a protracted wait there, due to the rains having made bad roads, their goods were finally gotten away and taken by ox teams and some wagons, to Fairfield, Iowa, where Mr. Eckert and Mr. Shaffer ran a store until 1845, when Mr. Eckert moved to Keokuk, Iowa. In 1848 he returned to Fairfield and remained there the balance of his life. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and an earnest Christian. He held many positions of trust, the duties of which he discharged faithfully and correctly. He was charitable, kind, and always ready to help financially and otherwise, anything to further the interests and good of the community in which he lived. Of a cheery, pleasant disposition, he was very hospitable and always glad to welcome his friends to the home he loved. In all of his benevolences and hospitalities he had the aid and encouragement of his wife, to whom he was devoted. He was a kind, indulgent father and a good citizen. On February 12th, 1850, he was married in Fairfield to LEANNA L. WISE. In 1900 he was stricken with paralysis and for months he was a great sufferer, until May 29th, 1901, when God released him from his sufferings and called him home. He is buried in the cemetery at Fairfield.

DAVID ELLIOTT ECKERT—Son of David and Susannah Eckert, was born in Washington, Pa., June 19th, 1830, and was educated there. At the age of twenty-one years he went to Fairfield, Iowa, in the Autumn of 1851. He went into the land and land warrant business under the firm name of Hamilton and Eckert. In the Winter of 1853 Mr. Eckert joined the Methodist Church of Fairfield and though he did not continue all his life to attend that Church he did maintain his allegiance to his Master Christ, and his support of the Church of his choice, and by his walk and conversation, the purity of his life and character, and the gentleness of his disposition, gave evidence of the true, best type of Christianity. On September 23rd, 1852, he was married to Mrs. Eliza Pope, of Fairfield. In the morning of Sunday, August 7th, 1879, Mr. Eckert was stricken with a severe attack of paralysis, which rendered him helpless and speechless, and which terminated in his death on Thursday night, August 11th, 1879, at 10:30 o'clock. With the "Lord as his Shepherd" and "Fearing no evil" he quietly entered the Valley and Shadow of Death. His remains are buried in the Fairfield Cemetery.

MICHAEL SHRYOCK JOHNS—Son of Thomas and Elizabeth Johns and son-in-law of David and Susannah S. Eckert, was born at Hagerstown, Maryland, February 12th, 1796. He spent his earlier years at Chambersburg, Pa., where his father was a prominent iron manufacturer and merchant. At the age of 16 years he enlisted in Captain S. D. Culbertson's company of Colonel John Findley's Militia Regiment, for the War of 1812, and served in the defense of Baltimore. After the war he was for a time, located in Washington, Pa., and later was a wholesale merchant in Philadelphia. About 1854 he moved to and settled in New Brighton, Pa., where for a number of years he was Agent for the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. For three successive terms he was chief burgess of the town of New Brighton. He was a member of the Order of Odd Fellows, and a very prominent Mason and a consistent member of the Methodist Church. Mr. Johns was a man of strong convictions and marked sentiments of patriotism, was proud that his ancestors had served in the Revolutionary War, and one of his sons in the War of the Rebellion. He was a man of indomitable will power, a faithful and attentive husband and father, a conscientious and honored citizen. On Thursday, June 10th, 1824, he was married in Washington to CHARLOTTE ECKERT of that place. Mr. Johns died at the residence of his son-in-law, E. Pentland Stewart, in New Brighton, Sunday, January 25th, 1885, and was buried with full Masonic rites in the New Brighton Cemetery on Tuesday, June 27th, 1885. His wife, Charlotte Eckert Johns, is also buried in that cemetery.

HARRY HOKE—Son of David and Elizabeth Shoemaker Hoke, grandson-in-law of M. S. Johns and great-grandson-in-law of David and Susannah S. Eckert, was born in the town of McConnellsburg, Pa., December 15th, 1859, where he attended school and learned the trade of cabinet making. He worked at that trade for some time in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad at its shops in Altoona, in the car building department, later going to Allegheny City and working in the railroad shops there for a short time. Entering the employ of the Joseph Horne store, Mr. Hoke, at the age of thirty-four years, became head buyer and manager of the trunk department of that concern and held that post for thirteen years prior to his death. He gave such attentive, faithful and conscientious service in whatever capacity he was employed and being a man with no bad habits, he had the respect, confidence and esteem of his employers. He was of a bright, cheerful disposition, pleasant and happy in social and home life, a loving and kind husband and father. On December 12th, 1894, he was married to CHARLOTTE ELLIOTT, a great-granddaughter of David and Susannah Slagle Eckert. Apparently in strong, vigorous health, Mr. Hoke was taken ill with what was thought to be a simple though painful affection, but on being taken to the hospital for an operation, his trouble was found to be of a very serious nature and he died immediately after the operation from the effects of the disease, at the Bellevue Suburban Hospital, December 28th, 1907, in Avalon, Pa.

THE ECKERT FAMILY

EPHRAIM PENTLAND STEWART—Son of James Hesson and Anna Lucas Stewart, and son-in-law of Michael and Charlotte Eckert Johns, was born in Pittsburgh August 13th, 1836. He was a member of one of the pioneer families of Beaver County, Pa. At an early age his father died and he was raised and educated by his mother's uncle, Abner P. Lacock. In 1861 in Rochester, Pa., he became a member of Company F (Curtin Rifles), Tenth Regiment, Pennsylvania Reserves, and served with distinction during the greater part of the War of the Rebellion, being promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant. For twenty-three years Mr. Stewart was chief clerk to the auditor of the disbursement office of the Pennsylvania Company at Pittsburgh, and his close attention to business and faithful discharge of the duties of his office, won for him the confidence and esteem of his employers and fellow employees. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, a good citizen, a sterling friend, a courteous gentleman and a loving and devoted husband and father.

On November 10th, 1866, he was married in New Brighton, Pa., to SUSAN ECKERT JOHNS, granddaughter of David and Susannah Slagle Eckert, of Washington. Ephraim Pentland Stewart died very suddenly in Rochester, Pa., on Friday, August 30th, 1894, and was buried in Rochester on Sabbath afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, September 1st, 1894.

EDWIN BRIDGE McCLELLAND—Son of Captain William Henry and Mary Ellen McClelland, and son-in-law of E. Pentland and Susan Eckert Johns Stewart, was born in Pittsburgh, July 9th, 1869, and attended school and business college in that city. For seven years after he left college he was in the employ of the Pittsburgh Gas Company as clerk and cashier. In 1901 he left the employ of the gas company to engage in the brokerage business, the firm being McClelland & McNeil. In 1899 Mr. McClelland was married to ANNA PENTLAND STEWART, a great-granddaughter of David and Susannah S. Eckert of Washington, Pa. The good moral character and fine business ability of Mr. McClelland gave promise of a successful and prosperous career, but this promise was not to be fulfilled, for at the early age of forty years, at his home in Wilkinsburg, Pa., E. B. McClelland died, November 14th, 1909, leaving his wife and two young children to mourn their loss of a loving father and husband.

WILLIAM DUANE WILSON — Son of James and Ann Adams Wilson, and son-in-law of David and Susannah Slagle Eckert, was born in Philadelphia, Pa., on the 21st of September, 1809. His father, James Wilson, came from the North of Ireland, to Philadelphia, where he married Ann Adams. William Duane was the eldest of ten children, the youngest of them being Joseph Wilson, the father of the present President, Woodrow Wilson. His father's family moved to Steubenville, Ohio, where at the age of sixteen years, William Duane Wilson had charge of a paper. For many years he was superintendent of lights on the northwestern lakes until that office was abolished. He moved to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where he joined the Hon. Rufus King in the publication of the Sentinel and Gazette. In 1853 he went to Chicago and became the editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily Tribune. Later he started a daily paper called "The Courant," which developed into what is now "The Times." He then moved to Des Moines, Iowa, and owned "The Iowa Homestead" until 1873. Mr. Wilson labored continually for the founding of the agricultural college and farm at Ames, Iowa, and lived to enjoy the fruition of his hopes in the establishment of the best agricultural college in the United States.

He was of sanguine temperament, active, ardent and hopeful. Socially, he was affable and courteous to all. Reared in an atmosphere of intelligence and refinement, under the guidance of a mother noted for her Christian virtues, he enjoyed most the companionship of the refined and cultured.

His was a long life, well spent, fraught with intimate business and social relations with thousands of men, without enmity; a gentleman whose sympathies were always with the laboring man; a loving, devoted husband and father and faithful friend. He was an honored member of the Masonic fraternity and an active member of the Presbyterian Church. On October 27th, 1835, William D. Wilson married ELIZABETH ECKERT, daughter of David and Susannah Slagle Eckert, of Washington, Pa. He died January 7th, 1877, and was laid to rest in Woodlawn Cemetery by his Masonic brethren at Des Moines, Iowa.

GEORGE ECKERT WILSON—Son of Gen. William Duane and Elizabeth Eckert Wilson, was born at Pittsburgh, Pa., December 8th, 1838. His father being in the newspaper business as proprietor and editor of papers at Chicago, Milwaukee, and Des Moines, he, during his younger business life, was also engaged in newspaper work. In 1860 he went to Central City, Colorado, where he went into business. In 1867 he entered the employ of the Union Pacific Railroad Company and continued with them for seventeen years. When Kearney, Nebraska, was the end of the Union Pacific railroad, and the station was three miles east of the present town of Kearney, George E. Wilson was its first station agent. In the Spring of 1883 he went to Sterling, Colorado, where he was station agent for almost two years. Retiring from that post, he went into the grocery business with J. H. Scott and continued in it until his death. When the town of Sterling was incorporated in 1884, he was elected its first mayor. As a railroader, Mr. Wilson was industrious and successful. A manly man, unostentatious in his manner, genial and kindly in his disposition, he was the center of a circle of warm, true friends. He was esteemed and respected as a citizen and loved as a friend. He was devoted to his home and family. He was a member of Ashley Lodge No. 33 of Nebraska. A. F. & A. M. On the morning of Sunday, December 19th, 1886, George E. Wilson was suddenly called to leave this life and go to that higher and better life beyond the stars.

In Central City, Colorado, on July 23rd, 1863, George E. Wilson was married to SARAH ANNA GIBSON, of Fairfield, Iowa. Mrs. Sarah A. Wilson is still living in Sterling, Colorado, with her daughter, Mrs. Susie Waugh, of that place.

JAMES BERNARD WILSON—Son of Gen. Wm. Duane and Elizabeth Eckert Wilson, was born at Wheeling, West Virginia, February 17th, 1840. With prospects of a bright and successful life before him, he was doomed to disappointment, for he was overtaken by a serious and incurable illness which blighted his life and hopes. Although unable to engage in business, still he retained his kindly disposition and was always ready with kind words and helpful encouragement to aid where he could. He was a kind, attentive, solicitous and dutiful son.

At Des Moines, Iowa, Thursday morning, August 26th, 1875, death came, and James Bernard Wilson was released from his earthly afflictions and went to his eternal home. He is buried in Woodland Cemetery, Des Moines, Iowa.

JARED MILTON SNYDER — Son of Avery Brown and Vienna Harris Taft Snyder, and son-in-law of William Duane and Elizabeth Eckert Wilson, was born in Oswego County, New York, May 27th, 1843. His mother was a relative of ex-President William H. Taft. In his youth he moved to Freeport, Illinois, where he studied law and was admitted to practice. Later he went to Iowa and assisted his uncle, Rev. Stephen H. Taft, in laying out the town of Humboldt in Northwestern Iowa, and he was its first school teacher. By his sterling, upright character he wielded a wonderful influence over the young. He served several terms as circuit judge in that district, and for many years was connected with the agricultural department at Washington, D. C. He was a great lover of trees and did much to encourage the planting of them by both young and old. His ideals and aspirations were of the noblest; he was the sympathetic companion of youth and maturity; faithful in the tenderest relations of life—pre-eminently a home maker; he gave his best under all circumstances; positive in his convictions and had the moral courage to stand firmly for right and justice. He was loved for his many admirable attributes of character, and those who came close to him knew he was rich in hope and faith. He was an exemplary member of the Presbyterian Church. On June 20th, 1872, Jared M. Snyder was married at Des Moines, Iowa, to SUSAN ECKERT WILSON, daughter of Wm. Duane and Elizabeth Eckert Wilson. Mr. Snyder died very suddenly September 17th, 1912, at Bay City, Michigan.

GEORGE RUSSELL TAYLOR—Son of John William and ———. Ward Taylor, was born in Frostburg, Maryland, October 15th, 1823. His father dying while he was quite young, his mother, with her four children, went to live with her mother. At the age of sixteen George Taylor entered the employ of Loundes & Clary as a clerk in their dry-goods store in Frostburg. At the age of 21 he left Frostburg, armed with $300. (proceeds of the sale of a horse), and a valuable letter of introduction signed by the leading citizens of the town, intending to go to New Orleans by way of the Ohio River. On reaching Wheeling, he found the river at flood stage and that he could not get a boat. This delay caused him to present his letter to Mr. James Marsh, one of the leading dry-goods merchants of Wheeling. His appearance and the letter seemed to please Mr. Marsh, for he offered the young man a position, which he accepted, and thus entered the employ of Robert & James Marsh. After a few years Mr. Taylor was taken into the firm as a partner, the name of the firm being changed to Taylor & Marsh. This partnership continued until 1861, when Mr. Taylor bought out the interest of his partner and the business name became George R. Taylor and it so continued until 1896, when Mr. Taylor retired, after fifty years of active and continuous business; but the name still continues, the business being carried on under the name of The George R. Taylor Co.

George R. Taylor was a Southerner in all of his tastes and tendencies, loved hunting and fishing; admired a fast horse and always kept fine horses. He was a man of keen perceptions, strictest honesty and a fine business ability. He was devoted to his family and home and in it was at his best. Possessed of such fine lovable traits, such a clean-cut and faithful Christian gentleman in everything that that name implies, he was honored and respected by his friends and associates.

On February 4th, 1847, he was married in Washington, Pa., to Martha Eckert, daughter of David and Susanna Slagle Eckert.

George R. Taylor died in Wheeling, W. Va., January 22nd, 1908, aged 84 years, and is buried in Wheeling.

They had seven children—

Jacob Oyster married a second wife, Polly Lindsay. Jacob Oyster died in the Autumn of 1862.

Mary Slagle, sister of Jacob Slagle, of Washington, married Jacob Oyster. Eleanor Susanna Alison, a sister of Mrs. Jacob Slagle, married George S. Eyster. These men were brothers, but spelled their names differently. They were also both of Chambersburg, Pa.

BRIEF BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES.

GEORGE MICHAEL WOLFF—Born in 1696 or 1697 in Hochstadt in the Palatinate, Germany. Married in 1730 to Juliana Maria Englehart, native of Kinssback. On January 1st, 1732, their son JOHANN BERNHARD, was born in Ober-Hochstadt. In the summer of 1739 he was brought by his parents to New Castle in Delaware. From there they went into the interior country. The borders of civilization were then not far beyond Lancaster, Pa. Having been a farmer in Germany, George Michael took up land in the northern part of the county and went to farming. In 1746 he died very suddenly. His son, John Barnhardt Wolff, then left the farm about 1748 or 1749 and went to the town of Lancaster, where he learned the saddlery and harness trade and went into business for himself in 1753. In 1755 he married Anna Charlotte Bier in Lancaster, Pa. When the Colonies revolted from the yoke of Great Britain, Barnhart Wolff was among the first to swear allegiance to the State of Pennsylvania and absolve himself from all fealty to King George III. He tendered his services to the Government and was engaged in carrying the mails and he also was what would now be called a "Commissary Officer," purchasing supplies and horses for the use of the army, and his whole force of men were turned to providing saddles, harness, etc., for the Continental Army. In his home life John Barnhart Wolff was very happy. He was an influential and prosperous citizen, strict and faithful member of the German Reformed Church, and was considered a pillar in the Church. He died in Lancaster on Monday, August 20th, 1792, and is buried in the graveyard of the First German Reformed Church of that place. His daughter, ANNA CHARLOTTE, was born January 9th, 1761, and was married on Tuesday, October 3rd, 1786, in Lancaster, Pa., to CHRISTIAN SCHLOEGEL, of Baltimore, Md.

CHRISTIAN SCHLOEGEL was born in Germany, February 22nd, 1749. At an early age he came to America together with several brothers and sisters. Some of his brothers went to the Carolinas, while some settled in York and Adams Counties, Pennsylvania. Christian remained in Baltimore, where he went into the currier business and was quite successful. He built a house on Water street, near Bowley's wharf. At the organization of the Otterbein Church of the United Brethren denomination, his name was the fifth on the roll of members. He was an active and leading member of his church and congregation, an upright and honest man. He was married in Lancaster, Pa., Tuesday, October 3rd, 1786, to ANNA CHARLOTTE WOLFF. He died in Baltimore, Md., Friday, January 31st, 1794, and was buried in the Otterbein Churchyard. In 1854 his remains were taken to Washington, Pa., and interred in the Cemetery there.

JACOB SLAGLE—Son of Christian and Anna Charlotte Wolff Slagle, was born in Baltimore, Md., February 27th, 1789.

THE SLAGLE FAMILY

His father died when he was scarcely five years old. When he was seven, his mother, with her four living children, went to Chambersburg, Pa., to live, in order to be near her brother, Christian Wolff. In Chambersburg, Jacob went to both English and Dutch schools until he was about sixteen years old, when he went to Washington, Pa., with Mr. David Eckert, (who married his sister, Susan Slagle,) with whom he remained for four years and three months to learn the saddlery and harness business. From 1809 to 1812 he worked in Pittsburgh, Chambersburg and Steubenville, Ohio. In 1812 he went into business for himself in what was then Charleston, Brooke County, Virginia (now Wellsburg). He remained there for 18 months, when he sold out and returned to Washington, Pa., where he established a saddlery and hardware business and lived the rest of his life.

He was a consistent member of the Presbyterian Church and for many years was an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Washington. One of the original stockholders and directors of the Female Seminary, he was also President of the Washington Cemetery Association, and for a number of years was an Associate Judge of the Washington County courts, and always actively interested in the welfare of the community. Possessed of a quaint sense of humor and of a kindly, sympathetic disposition, he was always well thought of and beloved. He was an upright, respected and honored citizen, and was one of the "noblest works of God, an honest man."

He was married on August 3rd, 1815, to Mary, daughter of James and Nancy Marshall, of Wellsburg, Virginia. She died April 14th, 1817. On February 11th, 1819, he married MARTHA ALISON, daughter of Joseph and Ann Cooper Alison, of Chambersburg, Pa., and widow of James W. McKemey. Jacob Slagle died in East Liberty (now East End, Pittsburgh, Pa.) at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ann C. McConnell, Friday evening, June 9th, at six o'clock. A beautiful incident connected with his burial was that just as the coffin was being lowered into the grave, a ray of bright sunlight which came through a rift in the clouds, shone right into the grave like a benediction to a well spent and glorified life.

JAMES MARSHALL SLAGLE—Son of Jacob and Mary Marshall Slagle, was born in Washington, Pa., May 16th, 1816. In 1840 he went to Iowa, locating at Bentonsport, on the Des Moines River, where he was a merchant. In 1842 he removed to Jefferson County and lived on a farm for seven years. In 1849 he went to the California gold fields, but he only stayed there two years, when he returned in 1851 to Fairfield, Iowa, where he remained the rest of his life. He was for a time treasurer of the Agricultural Society and was president of the Library Association. He was a man of modest demeanor a warm and true friend, a good citizen and was highly esteemed by those who knew him best. In 1851 he was married to Amanda B. Craine. He died in Fairfield August 15th, 1887.

BERNARD WOLFF SLAGLE—Son of James M. and Amanda B. Slagle, was born in Fairfield, Iowa, November 4th, 1854, and lived there until he entered the Iowa State University, at the age of fifteen years. Finishing the course at the University he entered the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. He graduated from that school with high honors in 1877. He went West and commenced the practice of medicine at Mankato, Kansas, but moved to Jewell City, Jewell County, Colorado, in 1879. In February, 1888, he removed to Smith Center, Kansas, where he opened a drug store and continued in the practice of medicine. He remained there the balance of his life. Some years before his death he retired from the drug business, but continued the active practice of his profession up to the very day of his death. His life was a busy one and his business career a success. He never allowed anything to interfere with the performance of his professional duties. Weather conditions, a long way to go, or the question of financial remuneration, were never taken into consideration by him if he was called to minister to the sick—he was always ready to go. Although a great admirer of the Episcopalian Church, there being no church of that denomination in Smith Center, he attended, and was a trustee in, the Congregational Church, was a member of the Elks' Lodge of Concordia, and a Mason. He walked with his face ever towards the light, put his trust in God, followed His guidance and feared no danger.

The intensely hot weather of the summer of 1913 and the untiring attention he was giving his practice began to tell on Dr. Slagle, and he was urged to try to get some rest and relief from the intense heat. This he at last consented to do and having made preparations, he was at the station with his wife, ready to take the train for Colorado Springs, when he was suddenly attacked and fell to the floor. On being taken to his home, he said to the attending physicians, "I am resting easy, but I am getting blind, and you know, as I do, what that means," and so, believing in the fadeless light and immortal life in that kingdom where faith and hope shall end because love and joy prevail forever, Dr. Slagle heard and answered the call to go home to his eternal rest and reward. He was mourned by the entire community that loved him so devotedly, the poorer people especially expressing their sense of the great loss of a friend and a physician they had sustained.

THE SLAGLE FAMILY

In April, 1879, at Boone, Iowa, he married Minnie May Thompson.

He died at his home in Smith Center, Kansas, Wednesday evening, August 20th, 1913, about 11 o'clock. He is buried in the Cemetery at Smith Center.

JAMES ECKERT SLAGLE—Son of James M. and Amanda C. Slagle, was born in Fairfield, Iowa, October 6th, 1856, and lived, and was educated, in Fairfield. About 1879 he left Fairfield and went to Colorado, where he lived the remainder of his life. He was industrious, capable and honest in his dealings, and of a cheerful, genial disposition and generous character which won him many friends. James E. Slagle never married. He died of a very malignant attack of pneumonia after only a few days' illness, in the town of Aspen, Colorado, on Tuesday, May 22nd, 1906, and is buried in Fairfield, Iowa.

JOSEPH ALISON McKEMEY—Son of Martha Alison and James W. McKemey, was born in Washington, Pa., March 27th, 1815. He had a good education and learned the saddlery trade. In the Spring of 1839 he went to Burlington, Iowa, making most of the trip on horseback, and arriving June 24th of that year. From Burlington he went to Bentonsport, Iowa, where he remained until 1842, when he purchased a 480-acre tract of land south of Fairfield, went to, and improved it. In 1845 he opened a harness shop in Fairfield and continued in that business until 1857, when he was elected treasurer of Jefferson County and served in that position for three consecutive terms. In 1863 he again went into business and continued in it until he retired in 1884.

In early life he was a Whig with strong anti-slavery views, was a member of the first anti-slavery society organized in his county and a delegate to the first Republican convention held in Iowa. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church until during the war, when he left it and joined the Congregational Church. He was a charter member of Clinton Lodge No. 15 of Masons, which was organized in 1847, and was the third man initiated into the mysteries of Masonry in Jefferson County.

While of an independent cast of mind, Mr. McKemey was a man of the very highest character and the best type of citizenship. To whomsoever he was a friend he was all that the name implies in its truest sense, and he had no enemies. Full of the good kind of humor that enjoyed a good joke, he was always careful not to joke at his friends' expense. He was genial, hospitable and kind, generous and charitable, thoughtful of others and devoted to his home and family. While he was pronounced and firmly grounded in his opinions, he was never aggressive in expressing them. In 1884 he married Cynthia A. Hemphill. He died in Fairfield, Iowa, January 3rd, 1893, and is buried in the Cemetery there.

CHRISTIAN WOLFF SLAGLE—Son of Jacob and Martha Alison Slagle, was born in Washington, Pa., November 17th, 1821. He graduated from Washington College September 23rd, 1840, studied law with Hon. Thomas M. T. McKennan, of Washington, was admitted to the bar in 1843, went to Fairfield, Iowa, and into partnership with Mr. George Acheson in 1843. This partnership continued until Mr. Acheson's death in April 1881.

C. W. Slagle was one of the founders of the Jefferson County Agricultural Society; was one of the warmest friends and supporter throughout his life of the public library of Fairfield; was one of its managing directors and its treasurer at the time of his death. He was Regent of Iowa State University from 1878 to 1882; President of the State University in 1877 and 1878; Commissioner of the Northern Pacific Railroad in 1879, '80 and '81. Always actively interested in and associated with movements for, and in the interests of, the welfare of Iowa. He was an original stockholder, one of its directors, and Vice President of the First National Bank of Fairfield. For many years trustee in the Congregational Church. He was first a Whig in politics and afterwards an active Republican. In 1880 he was nominated for the office of circuit judge, but was compelled by his increasing business cares and the illness of his partner to decline election. His public life was free from stain and his record without a blot. His home life was a singularly bright and happy one and he enjoyed the love and esteem of all who knew him. He was married July 26, 1849, to NANCY MARIA SEWARD in Guilford, Connecticut, and in all of his life she was a splendid helpmeet to a noble man.

C. W. Slagle died in Fairfield, October 3rd, 1882.

FRANCIS BURDETTE McCONNELL—Son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. McConnell, and son-in-law of Jacob and Martha Alison Slagle, was born in Bainbridge, Ireland, December 30th, 1814. He was brought by his parents to America July 21st, 1817. In April, 1835, the family moved to Pittsburgh, and Wm. H. McConnell, with his two sons, Francis B. and Joseph McConnell, started a dry-goods store on Market street. In May, 1858, F. B. McConnell went with his family to Fairfield, Iowa, but did not stay there long, returning to Pittsburgh about 1860, when he again became a partner in the firm of J. and F. B. McConnell on Market street. About 1867 he removed to East Liberty (now East, End, Pittsburgh) and carried on the business there under the firm name of F. B. McConnell & Sons. Later he retired from business entirely, but still lived in the East End.

THE SLAGLE FAMILY

F. B. McConnell was all his life a Presbyterian. For many years a member of the First Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, on his removal to East Liberty he, with his family, united with the East Liberty Presbyterian Church and was an elder in it for thirty years. He was an earnest Christian gentleman, always actively interested in the welfare of his Church and community, modest and unassuming, true to his principles, faithful to his duties and his friends.

On October 18th, 1843, he was married to ANNE COOPER SLAGLE in Washington, Pa. He died at his home on Rebecca street, East End, Pittsburgh, October 30th, 1898, and is buried in Allegheny Cemetery.

CHARLES BURDETTE McCONNELL—Son of Francis B. and Anne C. McConnell, was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., November 10th, 1849. He was taken by his parents to Fairfield, Iowa, in 1858 and returned with them to Pittsburgh in 1860. He attended School in Pittsburgh and College in Washington, Pa. On leaving college he returned to Pittsburgh, where he resided the rest of his life. For a time he was employed by his father and then was in business for himself. His health failing, he retired from this business and later went into the office of the "Presbyterian Banner" and was for sixteen years treasurer of that Publication Company.

He was a devout and conscientious Christian, a kind and loving husband and father and a devoted son and brother, and was modest and retiring in manner. He was a member of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church, but on the organization of the Tabernacle Church he united with it and was one of its Elders at the time of his death. On October 17th, 1876, he was married to IDA MAY BINGHAM, of Pittsburgh. He died May 5th, 1904, and is interred in Allegheny Cemetery.

EDWARD BAYLY NEELY — Son-in-law of Jacob and Martha Alison Slagle, was born December 25th, 1828, at "The Hermitage," the home of his maternal ancestors, in Accomac County, on the Eastern Shore of Virginia. He was the son of John Neely, A.M., a noted educator of his day. On his mother's side he was of English descent, on his father's Scotch-Irish. The family of E. B. Neely moved to Washington, D. C., where the greater part of his boyhood was spent. At the age of 17, he entered the Junior Class of Washington College at Washington, Pa., from which institution he graduated with high honors in 1847. While in college he was a classmate of James G. Blaine, and remained his close friend always. Immediately after graduating he took up the profession of teaching, was first an assistant in Warfield Academy, Howard County, Maryland; then for two years he taught in a private school which he had established in Onancock County, Virginia. In 1850 he was chosen principal of Margaret Academy, Accomac County, Va. In 1855 he resigned his position in Margaret Academy and removed to St. Joseph, Missouri, making the journey from Pittsburgh by steamboat. Shortly after their arrival in St. Joseph he, with Mr. Maxwell, established the St. Joseph Male Academy and continued in the management of it until 1864. August 12th, 1864. Mr. Neely was elected Superintendent of Public Schools of St. Joseph, and continued to hold that position for forty years, to the time of his death, and in point of continuous service, E. B. Neely was the oldest school superintendent in the United States. He served for six years on the Board of Free Public Libraries, was a member of the Board of Regents of the State Normal School, and was elected its president for four successive terms. For six and one-half years he was Superintendent of schools in Buchanan county and then declined to be re-elected. Although strong both physically and mentally, Mr. Neely gave such devoted, conscientious, untiring attention to his chosen work and to his duties as a true citizen, that his health broke under the strain and after a long and severe illness, he fell asleep at 10:30 o'clock, March 29th, 1904.

On May 5th, 1852, in Washington, Pa., Edward B. Neely was married to CHARLOTTE SLAGLE, daughter of Jacob and Martha Alison Slagle. She stood by his side a devoted mother and wife, a devout Christian and a faithful and helpful companion for over fifty years of happy married life.

JOHN STOCKTON SLAGLE—Son of Jacob and Martha Alison Slagle, was born in Washington, Pa., January 12th, 1828. He attended school in that place and then served with Mr. Colin M. Reed, of Washington, for the purpose of learning the business of a merchant. In 1845 he went to Pittsburgh and worked in the stores of F. B. McConnell and of Mr. Shea in what was the original of the present Joseph Horne Company. In 1849 he returned to Washington and went into business with his father in the harness and hardware business, and continued in it until 1855, when he went to live in Pittsburgh, Pa., where, for a short time, he was employed in a bank. He then became associated with the Shoenberger Iron Works, as bookkeeper from 1855 to 1862; then as a partner in the firm from 1863 to 1867, when he sold out in order to go into the firm of Coleman, Rahm & Co. He was a partner there from 1869 to 1872, when the company sold their property to the Allegheny Valley Railroad. He then went into the firm of Nimick & Co., iron and steel commission merchants, and was there from 1872 to 1893. He was president of the Duquesne Steel Company until it was merged with the Carnegie Company and was in the iron and steel commission business until his failing health forced his retirement from all business. He was a school director and on the Board of Controllors of Allegheny City for many years, a member of the Board of Inspectors of the Western Penitentiary for eight years, a member of the Sanitary Commission throughout the war, a member of Allegheny City Councils and president of Common Council at the time of, and a very earnest worker for, the passage of the ordinance which made the Commons into the Parks, an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny from 1868 until his death in December, 1906, a teacher of the Bible Class and superintendent of the infant department of its Sunday School for thirty-four years, and a director of the Western Theological Seminary for a number of years.

John S. Slagle was one of the original "Know-Nothings," which later became the Republican party. His devotion to his family and home was beautiful and in his private life and as a citizen, he carried out the true character of a faithful and honest man and a devout but unostentatious Christian. He loved, and was dearly loved by, children wherever he came in contact with them. On May 6th, 1852, he was married to MARGARET ANDERSON CAMPBELL, daughter of Henry and Sarah Campbell, of one of the pioneer families of Allegheny City, Pa. After an ideal married life, with his faithful wife, of fifty-four years, John S. Slagle went to his sure reward on December 21st, 1906, at half past eight o'clock in the morning. He was buried on the day before Christmas, at ten o'clock, in the Allegheny Cemetery, Pittsburgh, Pa.

THOMAS BRAINARD NICHOLS—Son of Thomas B. and Mary Walbridge Nichols and son-in-law of John S. and Margaret A. Slagle, was born at Mystic, Canada, while his parents were temporarily at the home of his maternal grandparents of that place. He attended school in Plattsburgh, N. Y. (his own father's home) and then went to Burlington, Vermont, where he was employed in the insurance business. In 1868 he entered the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. Graduated from there in June, 1872, with the rank of Lieutenant in the Sixth U. S. Cavalry. He served with his regiment for four years in Kansas and Arizona, part of this time with General Nelson A. Miles in campaigns after Indians. In 1876 he resigned from the Army in order to go into business; for two years he was with the Carnegie Company as an Assistant Manager of the Union Mills, from which position he resigned in 1880 and went, under contract with the Colombian Government, to Bogota, South America, to establish a Military School. While on one of his Winter campaigns with the Sixth Cavalry, he contracted rheumatism, which became chronic. After he had been in Colombia two years and two months, he was stricken with paralysis, having two strokes. followed by nervous prostration. Four months after the first stroke, his wife brought him back to the United States to the home of her father, John S. Slagle, but he never recovered his power of speech or the ability to fully care for himself. Throughout the almost twenty years that he was speechless and dependent, he used a typewriter to talk to his friends or to communicate his wishes. He was a member, at the time of his death, of Calvary M. E. Church, and for many years he was a regular and attentive attendant at all of its services. After his death one of his friends remarked: "I am glad I knew Mr. Nichols, for he was one of the most perfect lessons in patience that it was my good fortune to know." On December 9th, 1879, in Allegheny City, he was married to ELLA C. SLAGLE, daughter of John S. and Margaret A. Slagle. On Wednesday, June 11th, 1902, Thomas B. Nichols died in Allegheny City and is interred in the Allegheny Cemetery, Pittsburgh, Pa.

JOHN SLAGLE BELL—Son of Annie Barton and John Vernon Bell and grandson of John S. Slagle, was born in DuBois, Pa., August 7th, 1886. He attended school in DuBois and left the High School of that place to go to Kiskiminetas Springs School at Saltsburg, Pa. Graduated from "Kiski" in 1903, in the Fall of that year he entered Princeton University. He had successfully passed through three years in that institution and was ready to go back for his Senior year, when, in August, 1906, he fell a victim to that dread disease, appendicitis, and on August 27th, just twenty days after his twentieth birthday, John Slagle Bell, without an expression or sign of fear, answered the call to "Cross the Bar and meet his Pilot face to face."

When quite young John united himself with the Presbyterian Church of Dubois, of which his father is pastor, and throughout his life he was faithful to the profession he then made. He was of a bright, cheerful, interesting though modest personality. Kind to, and thoughtful of, others, he was loved and admired by all who knew him well. He dearly loved the hymn, "Crossing the Bar," and an evidence of his thoughtfulness of others, which continued to his last moments, was shown when, less than an hour before his death, after having bidden his family all "Good-bye," in a clear voice he prayed, "God give them strength as I cross the bar." He died at 8:30 in the morning of Monday, August 27th, 1906, at his father's home in DuBois, and his remains are interred in the Cemetery of that place.

JACOB FREDERICK SLAGLE—Son of Jacob and Martha Alison Slagle, was born in Washington, Pa., April 6th, 1830. He attended school in Washington and graduated from Washington College in 1848. In 1849 he commenced the study of law with Hon. Thomas M. T. McKennan in Washington, completed his course and was admitted to practice in 1852. He went to Pittsburgh and opened an office in January, 1853, and for a time practiced by himself, later forming a partnership with J. W. F. White. In 1861 he was elected City Solicitor of Pittsburgh and by his untiring effort and careful attention to business, he raised that office to a good standing and today it stands a monument to his painstaking industry and skill. In August, 1862, he enlisted in the army, assisted in raising a company and went into the service as lieutenant of Company D, 149th Pennsylvania Volunteers. He was wounded in the face at the Battle of the Wilderness, May 6th, 1864. He was made a captain April 22nd, 1864. After he was wounded, he was detailed for duty in Judge Advocate General Holt's office; later he was appointed a judge advocate in the regular army with the rank of major and held that office until June 16th, 1865. On his return to Pittsburgh he was again elected city solicitor and filled the office with honor from 1865 to 1872. He was elected judge of the County Courts in 1887, re-elected in 1897 and continued in the office until his death. He was a charter member of Duquesne Post 259, G. A. R., post commander in 1884 and again in 1894 and 1895, serving two years, and was also a member of the Veteran Legion. Jacob F. Slagle was a man of strictest honesty and integrity, faithful and untiring in the performance of his duty to his country and his city, a brave, loyal and partiotic soldier, a true friend, a devoted husband and an indulgent and kind father. Pronounced in his opinions and unflinching in the carrying out of his obligations as he saw them. As a judge, he was just and merciful, but his verdicts were in keeping with what he had as evidence and according to the law. He was twice married, first to Hannah Mary Taggart, January 11th, 1866. She died in 1867. On August 23rd, 1871, Jacob F. Slagle was married to Mrs. Mary Louise Broome. She died in August, 1876. Jacob F. Slagle, out of apparently perfect health, was suddenly called to "Answer to the Last Roll Call" when on the morning of Thursday, September 6th, 1900, at 7:30 o'clock, his daughter Milly found him unconscious and dying. His body was buried in the Allegheny Cemetery on Saturday afternoon, September 8th, 1900.

BERNARD WOLFF SLAGLE—Son of Jacob and Martha Alison Slagle, was born in Washington, Pa., December 27th, 1832. Graduated from Washington College in 1854, he studied Theology in the Western Theological Seminary in Allegheny City, Pa., from which institution he graduated and was licensed to preach in 1860, when he went West. He left the first place he went to because of his pronounced Union and Abolition ideas.

THE SLAGLE FAMILY

He then went to Defiance, Ohio, where he became Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of that place in 1862 and continued there until he retired and was made Pastor Emeritus in 1900, in all 47 years. In 1862 he married MARGRETTA BROWN VOWELL, of Washington, Pa. Rev. B. W. Slagle is still living in Defiance, where his long pastorate is a living evidence of his sweetly simple, but faithful and devout Christianity, and the love and respect shown him by his friends and children is a proof of his faithfulness and devotion as father and friend. He has watched and grown with, the steady growth of Defiance from a "small town on the banks of the Maumee" to the thriving city it now is and in all these years he has proven himself a loyal and true citizen. Rev. B. W. Slagle is living in Defiance, making his home with his daughter Etta and her husband, August Minsel, who is a successful and prosperous business man of Defiance, being now the owner and proprietor of three good drug stores in that place.

MEMORANDUM.

In a letter from Mr. Jacob Slagle of Baltimore—who said he was a relative of our family, but whose relationship cannot be satisfactorily established—he writes that the Slagle Family was the first to take up land across the Susquehanna River on the west of it. He also writes that a cousin tells of his father Christopher Slagle having had a finely equipped blacksmith shop on his plantation, the only one in that vast wilderness. To this shop an Indian came to have his tomahawk repaired, but there was no coal. The Indian said he would furnish the coal if Mr. Slagle would have his blacksmith do the work. This was agreed to and the Indian went away. He returned in about three hours with a quantity of coal, but said that he dare not tell where he got it, for if he did his Chief would kill him. This Jacob Slagle was born in Hanover, Pa., moved to Baltimore when fifteen years of age and lived there during his life. His ancestor, Christopher Slagle, came from Germany, landing in Baltimore in 1701, and a similarity of names and localities would indicate a family relationship, but it must have been only cousins. The Slagle Family was prominent, I am told, in Colonial days, and one Colonel Henry Slagle took a very active part in the politics and government of that time, but I have not succeeded in finding the records establishing the relationship.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES.

JOHN SHAFFER—Was born in York County, Pa., October 2nd, 1776. He learned the saddlery business with Mr. Felty, of Hanover, Pennsylvania, and for a time he worked for Mr. Wolff, in Chambersburg, Pa. In September, 1809, he went to Washington, Pa., and started a saddlery and harness business, and he was very successful in its prosecution. His father was a prosperous and successful farmer and a strict member of the Lutheran Church. When his son John joined the Methodist Church, he disinherited him, giving him only one dollar of his money. John Shaffer lived in Washington the remainder of his life, where his hospitable disposition made his house a famous stopping place for Methodist ministers and others. He was a Master Mason, and stood well in the records of his lodge. He was a kind, considerate and indulgent, though firm, father; a faithful, thoughtful and loving husband; a respected citizen and an honored and consistent Christian man. On September 19th, 1809, he was married in Chambersburg to Charlotte Slagle. Mr. Shaffer died in Washington, Pa., August 8th, 1863, aged eighty-seven years. He is buried in Washington Cemetery.

WILLIAM SHAFFER—Son of John and Charlotte Slagle Shaffer, was born in Washington, November 21st, 1810. After learning the harness-making trade with his father, he worked for awhile in Hickory, Pa., for Robert McElhinny. Returning to Washington, he worked for his father until he went to Zanesville, Ohio, and set up in business for himself there. He made the trip from Washington to Zanesville on horseback, riding a horse his father had given him before he left home. While in Zanesville he was a member of the Board of Infirmary directors. After making a visit through the West with his uncle, Jacob Slagle, and Mr. Robert McElhinny, he decided to leave Zanesville and go West, so, on September 14th, 1864, he took his family and goods to Fairfield, Iowa, where he established his permanent home. He was a Mason, belonging to Cypress Commandery. He was secretary of the Lodge and recorder of the Knights Templar Commandery. Mr. Shaffer was elected vice president of the Board of School Directors of the Fairfield district, March 9th, 1868, and continued on that board until, and was its secretary at, the time of his death. January 25th, 1870, he was appointed city assessor and on April 9th, 1870, he became a clerk for Mr. James Crawford, in which position he continued until one week before his death. While quite a young boy, William Shaffer joined the Methodist Church and continued an exemplary and consistent member of it throughout his life. He was a thoughtful, loving and devoted husband and father; an honest, faithful and considerate citizen and friend; a true, conscientious Christian, and was patient, trustful and hopeful through many trials and uncomplaining, even when suffering severe afflictions. On May 7th, 1834, he was married to ANN RUTH, daughter of John and Mary Jane Ruth, in Washington, Pa. January 1st, 1875, William Shaffer passed to his rest and reward in the Kingdom of Heaven, dying, as he had lived, patient and uncomplaining to the last.

FREDERICK THOMPSON SHAFFER—Son of John and Mary T. Shaffer, and great-grandson of John and Charlotte Shaffer, was born in Fairfield, Iowa, July 26th, 1881. In 1887 his parents moved to Des Moines and his early boyhood was passed there. He was a young man of fine business ability and though quite young, had held several important positions, among them being that of salesman for the Kellogg Switchboard and Telephone Supplies Company of Chicago, with his headquarters at Aberdeen, South Dakota. A promotion, involving a move to Omaha, Nebraska, was about to take effect when his highly strung nervous system suddenly gave way and lacking the physical strength to overcome the nervous collapse, he failed to rally from its effects and died in two days after the break came, in St. Luke's Hospital, Aberdeen, on December 18th, 1907. He was marred at Atlantic, on June 6th, 1906, to ELVA BAYLIES, daughter of G. A. Baylies, of Omaha, Nebraska.

JOHN ECKERT SHAFFER—Son of John and Charlotte Shaffer, was born at Washington, Pa., February 22nd, 1821, where he lived and attended school until 1836, when he entered Washington (now W. & J.) College, graduating from that institution in 1840. For two years he taught school and studied law at Kingwood, Virginia, and in 1842 was admitted to the bar and practice of law in Virginia. Not wishing to continue in the law practice, he took up the study of medicine under Dr. F. Julius LeMoyne, who was a great abolitionist before the war, candidate for Vice President, and afterwards was noted as the first Cremationist in this country. John E. Shaffer graduated in medicine from the University of Pennsylvania in 1845 and on December 10th of the same year he located, and made his permanent home, at Elizabeth, Pa. He was one of the "Know Nothings" and afterwards became a Republican. He was postmaster during President Lincoln's tenure of office, was a Mason and an Odd Fellow. As a member of the Methodist Church, Dr. Shaffer was faithful in his duties to, and actively interested in everything pertaining to its welfare and integrity. He was active in every enterprise which tended to benefit his community—but it was as a faithful, tender, careful and attentive physician that Dr. Shaffer was at his best. Always ready whenever the call for "the doctor" came, he, for forty-four years, worked to alleviate the bodily ills of the people of his town and surrounding country, not sparing himself when he thought others needed him to comfort them either physically or mentally. On March 26th, 1846, Dr. Shaffer was married at Pittsburgh, Pa., to ELIZABETH S. HOLMES, daughter of Rev. George S. Holmes. On May 31st, 1889, Dr. Shaffer answered the "last call" and went home to the reward awaiting those who faithfully do their appointed work in this life. He is buried in Elizabeth, Pa.

CHRISTIAN SLAGLE SHAFFER—Son of John and Charlotte Shaffer, was born in Washington, March 6th, 1823. He attended schools in Washington and Hickory, Pa., until he was fourteen years old, when he commenced to learn his father's trade of saddlery and harness making, in 1837. He worked at home until 1840, when he went to Zanesville and worked with his brother William until 1843. He then returned home and worked with his brother Jacob until March 6th, 1844, when he, with James Eckert and Robert McElhinny, started for Fairfield, Iowa, and their friends never expected to see them again because they were going so far away. The trip was made from Pittsburgh to St. Louis and from St. Louis to Fort Madison by river steamboats. They left Pittsburgh the last week in March and reached Fort Madison in April. It commenced to rain the day they reached Fort Madison and rained every day until July 3rd. Messrs. Shaffer and Eckert were in business together till April, 1845, when Mr. Eckert went to Keokuk and Mr. Shaffer continued the business alone until 1849, when he sold out to Mr. Robert McElhinny. In 1848 and 1849, Mr. Shaffer bought and packed dressed hogs, paying one and one-fourth and two cents cash a pound and the balance in trade, for them. In March, 1850, he with a number of friends started for California, which they reached in ninety days. He stayed in California until the Spring of 1851, when he, with his party, returned to Iowa by water, by way of the Isthmus of Panama. They crossed the Isthmus on foot, the trip across requiring one day to make it. From Panama they went to Havana and New Orleans by steamer; from New Orleans to St. Louis and from St. Louis to Keokuk by river packet boats. From Keokuk to Fairfield they travelled by coach, arriving in Fairfield on July 6th, 1851. In May, 1864, Mr. Shaffer went from Fairfield to Washington, Pa., where he was married on June 21st, 1864, to JANE CROES LANE, of Washington. They returned to Fairfield, where he spent the rest of his life. In 1847 C. S. Shaffer was made a Mason and was an affiliated Master Mason for fifty-eight years. At the time of his death he was the last survivor of the charter members of Clinton Lodge No. 15. Among the occupations of Mr. Shaffer in later years, he performed the excellent service of renovating, and placing in position, the Museum of Natural History objects donated by his brother, Dr. Joshua Munro Shaffer, to the Public Library.

THE SHAFFER FAMILY

On April 1st, 1905, at Abingdon, Illinois, death suddenly called Christian Slagle Shaffer to go on the long journey to that New Country, which would bring him new delights and a reward for his faithfully performed duties here.

JOSHUA MUNROE SHAFFER—Son of John and Charlotte S. Shaffer, was born in Washington, September 13th, 1830. In 1843, at the age of thirteen years, he entered Washington College, graduating from it in 1848, and in 1849 he commenced the study of medicine with his brother, Dr. John Eckert Shaffer, in Elizabeth, Pa., and also attended lectures at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. Having finished his medical studies, he went to Fairfield, Iowa, in 1852, where he began to practice. In 1862 the honorary degree of M. D. was conferred on him by the Iowa State University. In 1863 he was appointed by the United States, surgeon of the Board of Enrollment, and in two years examined over two thousand applicants for enrollment in the army. For twelve years he was secretary of the Iowa State Agricultural Society, which institution had its origin in his office in 1853. In 1874 he removed to Keokuk, Iowa, in order to take up his duties as secretary of the Iowa Life Insurance Company. Dr. Shaffer was a careful and enthusiastic student of Natural History and a fine taxidermist, and was considered a high authority by the government officials at Washington, D. C. He was a consistent and staunch Republican in politics, a prominent and active member of the Unitarian Church and secretary of that body for a long term of years; was a member of Damascus Commandery of Knights Templars and of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Modest and unassuming in manner; possessed of a fund of humor and wonderfully gifted mentally, Dr. Shaffer was beloved, respected and honored not only by his neighbors, but by the community at large. Dr. J. M. Shaffer was married at Elizabeth, Pa., on March 18th, 1856, to MISS MEL JANE CURRY.

On March 26th, 1913, at his home in Keokuk, Iowa, Dr. Shaffer quietly and peacefully passed into the Great Beyond, there to join his beloved wife, who had preceded him by but a few years. His body was cremated.

OSCAR BURK HILLIS—Son of Dr. David and Laura Kiser Hillis and son-in-law of Dr. J. M. and Mel J. Shaffer, was born at Madison, Indiana, June 23rd, 1857. He was raised in Keokuk, Iowa, where he read law with Hon. George McCrary. He was appointed deputy clerk of the U. S. Circuit Court at Kansas City, Missouri, and was later given the clerkship of the same court at St. Paul, Minnesota, and held the position for fourteen years. In 1897 he was transferred to Omaha, Nebraska, as clerk of both the Federal Courts in that city. This position he held till his death. His faithful and careful discharge of the duties of his office made him an honored and trusted citizen and all who knew him, esteemed and admired him. Though modest and retiring in his disposition, he was possessed of rare social qualities which won for him many sincere friends. His love for, and devotion to, his wife and children made his home life an ideal one. On May 9th, 1882, he was married to SUSAN FINLEY SHAFFER, of Keokuk. An apparently strong, hearty man, and in seemingly perfect health, Oscar B. Hillis was suddenly stricken with apoplexy and died early in the day on June 23rd, 1899, at his home in Omaha. His remains were removed to St. Paul, where they were cremated.

ROBERT McELHINNY, SR.—Son of David McElhinny and son-in-law of John and Charlotte Shaffer, was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., February 6th, 1805. He served an apprenticeship at the saddlery trade with Jacob Slagle in Washington and later was a clerk in the store of Alexander Sweeny. In 1831 he opened a general store in the village of Hickory, Washington County, Pa., in a room about ten by fifteen feet, on a capital of about eight hundred dollars. He prospered finely during his six years' residence in Hickory and on April 1st, 1837, removed to Washington, where he went into business and remained until 1844, when he went West, via the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, to Keokuk and thence by wagon to Fairfield, Iowa. In 1849 he moved his family to Iowa. In 1857 or 1858 his wife and children returned temporarily to Washington for the purpose of giving the children better educational advantages. They went back to Fairfield in 1862 and lived there the rest of his life. Robert McElhinny was an honest, careful, industrious man, modest and quiet in his demeanor, honored and respected by his fellow citizens. He had no enemies, and was loved sincerely by the many friends to whom he had endeared himself. During his residence in Washington, he and his wife joined the Presbyterian Church, of which he continued a consistent member throughout his life. On June 27th, 1831, Robert McElhinny was married in Washington to MARY SHAFFER. On Monday evening, April 22nd, 1878, at the age of seventy-four years, he laid down his earthly life and went to his eternal rest. He was buried in the Evergreen Cemetery in Fairfield, Iowa, April 24th, 1878.

ROBERT McELHINNY—Son of Robert and Mary Shaffer McElhinny, was born in Washington, Pa., May 29th, 1840, and lived in Washington until 1849, when his parents took him to Fairfield. In 1857 his mother and her children went back temporarily to Washington and he entered Washington College, from which he graduated in 1862, and they all returned to their home in Fairfield, where he took up the study of law with Slagle & Acheson. On the evening of February 10th, 1863, Robert McElhinny, Jr., succumbed to the effects of typhoid fever and died at his father's home in Fairfield. He had lived a quiet life and died a peaceful death.

CHRISTIAN SHAFFER McELHINNY—Son of Robert and Mary McElhinny, was born in Fairfield, Iowa, September 10th, 1856. He was educated in his home town and graduated from the Union School of that place in 1880. He then went to the Western Theological Seminary at Allegheny, Pa., for two years, and from there to McCormick Seminary in Chicago, where he graduated and was licensed to preach in 1884. His first charge was the Montezuma Presbyterian Church, the next was at Columbus Junction, then at Chariton, and finally he was filling two pulpits of the Presbyterian Churches at Bentonsport and Mt. Zion in Iowa. October 15th, 1889, C. S. McElhinny was married in Fairfield, to CARRIE SPIELMAN, of that place. August 20th, 1909, he died and is buried in Fairfield, Iowa.

SAMUEL KIMMEL WEIRICK—Was born in Canton Township, Washington County, Pa., in September, 1818. He was a farmer by occupation. When he went to housekeeping after his marriage on May 20th, 1841, he did so with only five dollars' worth of furniture, but with an indomitable will, good health, strong, willing hands, plenty of courage and determination, and best of all, a good, faithful, helpful young wife to assist him. For ten years he worked the first farm he was on, on shares, his to be one-third. The next fourteen years he worked on a one-half interest basis and at the end of the twenty-four years, in 1865, he purchased a farm of his own from Mr. Colin M. Reed and continued on it for eighteen years, at the end of which time—in 1883—he owned a fine farm of four hundred acres, well improved with a substantial brick house, and well built buildings, and all necessary improvement and conveniences on it, unincumbered with any debt. After forty-two years of farming, he bought a house on Chestnut street in Washington. Leaving the farm to the management of two of his sons, he moved into town and passed the remaining years of his life in comfortable ease. Industrious, frugal, careful, cheerful and hard-working, Mr. Weirick and his wife enjoyed good health and the life on the farm, and when he had been successful and accumulated a considerable amount of this world's goods, they enjoyed the comfort and restfulness of their life in town. On October 14th, 1840, he married ANNA CHARLOTTE SHAFFER in Washington. Samuel K. Weirick died February 13th, 1901, and is buried in Washington Cemetery.

THE SHAFFER FAMILY

JACOB SHAFFER WEIRICK—Son of Samuel and Anna Charlotte Weirick, was born on the farm in Washington County, December 20th, 1843, and lived and grew to early manhood there. He became a great favorite of his Grandfather Shaffer, with whom he loved to visit. In August, 1861, he enlisted in the army for the War of the Rebellion, as a private in Company A, Pennsylvania Roundhead Regiment, and went with the first fleet to South Carolina, on the "Ocean Queen." He died in a hospital at Beaufort, South Carolina, of pneumonia, March 13th, 1862, eighteen years, two months and nineteen days old. Some time after his death, his remains were taken to Washington and laid in the Cemetery there. A strange thing occurred in connection with his death. He wrote often to his mother and she always read his letters to his grandfather. On March 14th, she went to read a letter she had just received which was written on February 25th. When her father saw her, he asked if she had a letter from Shaffer, and added: "I had such a strange dream last night, I feared he was sick." She said, "No, he is well and cheerful." Being pressed to tell the dream, the grandfather continued: "In my dream I saw Shaffer in the stage coach, which stopped at the front door. He was the only passenger, and said he wish to speak to grandpa. I went out and Shaffer said, 'Grandpa, I thought I would take you with me,' and then said, 'Good-bye, Grandpa, I will wait another year' and the stage drove off. In the dream I stood and watched the stage go over the hill." When the news of Shaffer's death came, it proved to be the very night of the dream, that he died. One year and five months later his grandfather died.

SAMUEL W. COFFIN—Was born in Catskill, New York, December 16th, 1832, and lived there through his young boyhood. When the gold fever was raging in 1849 he went with others to the California gold fields. From there he took up the business of freighting on the Old Oregon Trail and in Idaho, finally settling in Portland, Oregon. Having succeeded in his quest for fortune in the gold fields, he went south to Georgia and invested his money in cotton and had a great quantity of it on the wharves at Atlanta, ready for shipment, when General Sherman with his troops reached there during the war. The cotton being considered contraband of war, was promptly burned and Mr. Coffin lost a fortune. He then returned North and after the close of the Civil War he went to, and located in, Fairfield, Iowa. Mr. Coffin joined the Masons when he was twenty-one years of age and was a member of that order for upwards of sixty years, and probably was the oldest Master Mason in Iowa. He affiliated with Clinton Lodge No. 15, A. F. and A. M., in Fairfield, August 8th, 1871, and was an active member of it until his death. He was a faithful and consistent member of the First Presbyterian Church of Fairfield and a regular attendant thereat until failing health prevented him from going. For a number of years he was in the harness business in Fairfield in partnership with John R. Shaffer. After a long, active life, Mr. Coffin's health failed, but it was strange that, after enduring the hardships and buffetings of frontier life on the plains, at the last he died as a result of a slight fall. On June 24th, 1869, in Fairfield, he was married to ELIZABETH SHAFFER HUEY, widow of Dr. John T. Huey and daughter of John and Charlotte S. Shaffer, of Washington, Pa. Samuel W. Coffin died in Fairfield, July 23rd, 1913. His remains were cremated in Davenport, Iowa.

GEORGE W. McCASKEY—Son of Daniel and Nancy Ann Sutherland McCaskey, was born at Georgetown, Beaver County, Pa., March 20th, 1801, and was one of sixteen children. His father was born in Dublin, Ireland, and his mother in Scotland. George was educated in the village school and instructed by the ministers of the same. On reaching a suitable age he was ordained a Methodist minister and licensed to preach, becoming what was known as a "Circuit Rider," an occupation which involved hard work and was poorly paid. He often had to take farm produce instead of money for his salary. He went from place to place on horseback to perform the duties belonging to his work. There being few good roads then and often only bridle paths through the woods, he encountered many privations and dangers, sometimes getting lost and having to stay in the woods over night with the ground for his bed and his saddle for a pillow. In 1835 he was sent to Cleveland, Ohio, and remained there until 1836, when he returned to Washington. In 1837 he went to Cookstown and from there to Perryopolis, Pa.; in 1838 he moved to Greensboro, Greene County, Pa., and in 1839 to New Lisbon, Ohio. In 1841 he changed to Richmond, Ohio, and from there to Steubenville, Ohio; in 1843 to Claysville and in 1844 he was stationed in Beallsville; in 1846 he was sent to Chartiers Valley and in 1848 to New Brighton, Pa., and from there to Freedom, Pa. From this last place he returned to Washington and on April 8th, 1852, Mr. McCaskey, thinking to better his financial condition, left his family in Washington and started for the gold fields of California. After the many dangers, hardships and privations of an overland journey which lasted over four months, he arrived in Sacramento, California, in August, 1852. Whether his health failed or whether he became discouraged, is not known, but in March, 1853, he started to go back home by water on the steamer "Winfield Scott" to Navy Bay, where he took the steamer "Union." On April 2nd, 1853, Rev. Mr. McCaskey, on board the boat, was stricken with yellow fever, which proved fatal to him on the 7th of April, at twenty minutes past five o'clock in the afternoon, when he died. Just before his death he sang in a clear voice, a stanza from

“Oh, how happy are they who their Saviour obey
And have laid up their treasures above”—

when his voice failing, he calmly passed from this life into the presence of the God whom he revered and trusted. He was patient and hopeful to the end. He was buried at sea off the coast of Cuba.

On January 21st, 1835, he was married to SUSANNA SHAF-FER, daughter of John and Charlotte S. Shaffer, of Washington, and through all of his married life his faithful and devoted wife stood bravely by him in all his work and worries.
